Cotton Seed Oil

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Cotton seed oil made a substantial gain early today on export rumors and covering of shorts but later reached some 7 to 17 points under selling by refiners and bear pressure. Final prices were 1 to 11 points not higher. Considerable buying of late months was in evidence all day.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Although wheat showed strength through most of today's session, prices melted rapidly in the last hour. The turn in favor of the bears was due to scolding by speculators, who found the market temporarily without support. Heaviness ruled at the close, which varied from 5-8 to 7-8 under last night. Corn finished unchanged to 1-8 higher; oats off 1-4 to 3-8 and provisions strung out from 35 cents decline to a rise of 22-1/2 cents.

Grain and provisions closed: Wheat, December, $1.13 1-2; May $1.19. Corn, December 67 3-4; May 70 2-8. Oats, December 48 5-8; May 52. Cash grain: Wheat, No. 2 red, $1.13 3-4 @ 1.14 1-4; No. 2 hard, $1.13 1-2 @ 1.14 1-4. Corn, No. 2 yellow 73 1-2 @ 74. Oats, standard, 41 1-2 @ 42.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Cotton goods markets were steadier today. Wide print cloths were stronger and higher. Piece goods sold well at the carpet auction; some rugs sold lower. Underwear and hosiery were quiet. Sweater yarns were in better demand.

Financial

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Foreign exchange showed little change today, aside from a slight hardening of rates on London and German financial centers. There were large offerings of bills, in consequence of further extensive purchases of supplies for export. Competent brokers think a change on London, so far as it affects practical purposes, now is almost normal. Financial interests profess to see in the increasing outflow of merchandise an foodstuffs to the belligerent nations vastly more than a mere adjustment of exchange. They declare that if exports are maintained at their present high level for the balance of the year, American obligations across the water will be changed to credits, and the present menace of liquidation of American stocks by Europe be automatically dispelled.

Advices from New England and western points indicate another hitch in consumption of cotton pool. Banks in those sections hesitate to give their approval, it is said, unless financial institutions in the cotton growing States show their ability to contribute their share—$35,000,000—without increasing their loans at this and other reserve centers. For the first time in several weeks the banks showed a fairly large loss of cash to the sub-treasury on the known money movement. It was not believed, however, that last week's satisfactory bank statement, with its restored surplus, would be seriously disturbed.

An increasing demand for money for mercantile purposes was reported here and at other prominent commercial centers, the most seasonable weather having given an impetus to many lines of business. An echo of conditions in the steel industry was heard in further deferred or suspended dividends and the weekly reviews of trade authorities, which state that the winter prospect is far from encouraging and that prices continue to yield. Almost the only branch of the business thus far benefitted by the war is barbed wire.

for which many new orders have been received.

More gold was transferred to Ottawa today in further payment of debts arising from the city loan note issues.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Today's advices from the South indicated a firmer tone in the spot cotton situation. Local brokers reported that offers from the southwest showed an advance of from 1-4 to 1-2 cent for the recent low levels at some interior Texas points. This improvement was attributed to a partial withdrawal of offerings and increased activity of exports to fill October engagements. The more cheerful view of the general situation was encouraged by the announcement of the detailed plans for the operation of the $135,000,000 cotton financing pool, and the appearance of further frosts in the belt.

It was estimated that approximately 85 per cent of the entire belt had experienced killing temperatures during the past 48 hours. Some authorities thought the damage sufficient to justify a reduction of nearly half a million bales in estimates of the yield.

At a meeting today of the conference committee with members of exchange having contracts open with Liverpool it was decided to ballot on no cotton below 8 cents for December contracts here and to cable a protest to Liverpool against permitting spinners to buy on call there without releasing straddle accounts in New York.

New Orleans Cotton

(By Associated Press.) NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—An increased export movement caused a better demand for both spots and futures today in the cotton market with the result that, in the afternoon, January contracts traded at 7.20, a new high level for the week, and spot prices were advanced one-eighth to 65-8 for middling. Total foreign exports for the day were 31,592 bales, making exports for the week thus far 95,267 bales, or about 10,000 bales more than was exported all last week. A feature of the export statistics was the clearance of 18,995 bales for Japan. Spot cotton steady. Sales on the spot 382 bales; to arrive 1,250.

SEEKING SHIPS TO CARRY COTTON

American Vessels Being Sought So They Can Bring Dyestuffs, Etc., on Return Trips.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The British government having given assurances that American cotton would be allowed to go through to Germany and Austria, American vessels are being sought in this port to carry abroad their first shipments. Robert F. Rose, foreign trade adviser of the state department, in making this announcement here today, said cotton might either be landed at ports in Holland and transported into Germany by rail or would be shipped direct to Germany. American ships particularly are being sought because it is planned to have the vessels bring dyestuffs, cyanide, chemicals, medicines, sugar beet seed, and potash on their return trips. Germany, in lifting the embargo on these products, stipulated that cyanide and dyestuffs must be carried in American bottoms. The Malanzas, the first steamship to leave with dyestuffs from Germany since the embargo was lifted, left Rotterdam for New York today and the Sun, an American steamer, will carry Rotterdam November 1 with the first cargo of cyanide. The prosperity of 600,000 American textile workers, it is declared here, depends on a free movement of German dyestuffs, while owners of American gold and silver mines depend largely upon German cyanide to extract those metals.

Directly Concerns Southern Farmers

Special to The Intelligencer. WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Referring to reports that agents of the European governments are buying large numbers of horses in the United States for war purposes, President Harrison of Southern Railway Company, said today: "This is a matter that directly concerns the farmers of the South. On account of the great destruction of horses that is now going on in Europe we may look forward to an active demand for draft animals during the war and for some time after the restoration of peace. The natural effect of this will be to bring about higher prices, and this emphasizes the importance to the farmers of the South of raising their own draft animals and not buying so many horses and mules from the West as heretofore."

Blockade Rumor China Here

The ladies of Anderson and vicinity now have an opportunity of purchasing some imported Bavarian China, which probably has a bit of a story attached to its travels and route taken to finally reach Anderson, S. C. It so happened that Messrs. Marchbanks & Babb had ordered some imported Bavarian China in fancy pieces before the European war broke out; and soon after war was declared, they received a letter from the importers from whom the local jewelers bought their China, stating that owing to the war, they could not fulfill their contract, but in some manner the manufacturers of this china over in Bavaria managed to get the shipment through, even after the war had been in progress for a month or more. Mr. Babb says he knows that the goods came into this country through an other port of entry from the one usually used by these same importers of this same class of goods. The goods came to this country aboard the steamer "Bohemia." A suitable name for this china would be the "Blockade Runner," and it doesn't seem any worse for the excitement of the trip.

Anderson Is His Town

The present war in Europe has evidently made a real Anderson booster out of one Russian Israelite, for when Mr. Isadore Giesberg said to a friend of his, "Why don't you go back to Russia, and fight for your old country?" he received the following reply: "Anderson is My Town." Isadore says that from the manner in which he said this, that he was convinced he meant it.

Inquiries for Tribble's Cotton

From the small write-up, given Mr. Tribble's miniature issues of cotton, he has received several inquiries as to where he got them, their cost, etc., from several nearby points, and one or two from cities as far removed from Anderson as Chicago. There is no telling about where a piece of information will end, once it finds its way into the columns of a live daily newspaper. Mr. Tribble does not wish to sell this cotton at ten, or even fifteen cents a pound; he probably would like to sell some he has at ten cents.

NEAR DEATH BY SMOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death. Medicines patched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken."

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never was a man and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles. For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others. Get a bottle of Cardui to-day.

DAMAGE SUITS IN OCONEE

Jury Returned Verdict for More Damage Than Was Proven.

Seneca Farm and Factory. The case of R. H. Boyd against the Courtenay Manufacturing Company, suit for damages in a case growing out of alleged damages to lands by reason of back water from a dam, resulted in the jury awarding Mr. Boyd damages in the sum of $500. Damages to the extent of $5,000 was asked. Judge Memminger ordered a mistrial in the case of R. M. Check against T. N. Carter. The suit grew out of an automobile accident. The Courier says the amount of damages sued for was $1,000 and in the trial of the case $156 actual damages were proven. The jury returned a verdict favorable to the plaintiff for $200 actual damages, and $50 punitive damages. The amount of actual damages named in the verdict being in excess of the actual damages proven. Judge R. W. Memminger, after the jury had been notified of their mistake and had returned practically the same verdict, set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial in the case. His remarks to the jury are said to have been quite severe and to the point.
